Vote Hemp

Launched in 2017, the U.S. Hemp Roundtable is a coalition of dozens of hemp companies – representing every link of the product chain, from seed to sale – and all of the industry’s major national grassroots organizations. Our primary mission is to secure passage of legislation to permanently legalize hemp, designating it as an agricultural commodity, not a controlled substance. Our efforts will include an aggressive, targeted, grass-tops lobbying campaign that will bring leading farmers and business executives to Washington to help improve upon and secure final passage of key federal legislation.

In order to build political support, and ensure the long term viability of the industry, the Roundtable’s mission will also include: (1) facilitating information exchange with law enforcement and federal agency officials; (2) the seeding and infrastructure development of an independent self-regulated organization (SRO), including the drafting of regulatory-acceptable specifications and standards; and (3) continued long-term legislative advocacy on other major policy issues, remaining vigilant against potential attempts of rival industries to halt hemp’s progress.

As with most other American industry trade associations, the Roundtable is self-funded by the generosity of firms and organizations, who share skin in the game through annual dues payments. The Roundtable offers three tiers of membership, with full payment due on February 28, 2018:

1. Board of Directors -- $25,000 annual contribution -- providing the governance of the organization, making hiring and budget decisions, etc.
2. Voting Members -- $10,000 annual contribution – with a voice in the development of all Roundtable policies, including the key decisions on legislative language and policy priorities.
3. Non-Voting Members -- $5000 annual contribution -- participating in calls and meetings, and able to express their ideas and concerns, but not able to cast votes.

(Online participation in the Roundtable’s efforts as a “Hemp Supporter” is free of charge and easy to join at www.hempsupporter.com. Only paying Members of the Roundtable, however, have a voice in the organization’s governance and policy development.)
